

Documentation of Education On The Protection of Human Subjects

The federal Office of Human Research Protections (OHRP) requires IRB members to demonstrate that they have completed education on the protection of human research participants. The education requirement may be fulfilled in a variety of ways, including specific courses, reading materials and online tutorials. To document how you have fulfilled this requirement, please list below the education activities in the protection of human research subjects you have completed during the last three years. Examples of appropriate educational activities include:

- Readings List books, brochures, or other materials concerning the use and protection of human research subjects which you have read and identify the author or source of the materials.
- Courses List any courses, seminars, or workshops you have attended on the protection of human research subjects and the date you attended. Identify the organization or office that provided the training.
- Web-based Tutorial Programs Identify any tutorial program you have successfully completed and the web site. For example, the NIH Office of Human Subjects Research training module located at <http://ohsr.od.nih.gov> or the Sinclair Community College website (www.sinclair.edu/departments/grants/compliance/irb).
- Committee Participation If you have served on an Institutional Review Board at another institution, please identify the committee, your role, and the dates you served.
- Other List any other items or sources of training which have helped you fulfill the education requirement.
