Confidentiality

The Office of Counseling and Career Development is responsible for maintaining confidentiality of student records and will not release any medical or psychological records, including psychological educational evaluations and other related information outside of education records, without the student’s informed and written consent. Forms that are generated for the purpose of providing accommodations for the student will be part of the student’s educational records and, therefore, will be subject to the guidelines of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA). The student is free to disclose the nature of his/her disability to anyone he/she wishes.

Vice President for Student Services
Dear Student:

Welcome to Trident Technical College! We are pleased that you have chosen to pursue your educational goals here at TTC. We would like to take this opportunity to introduce you to the many helpful resources that the college offers for students with disabilities.

As you read through your handbook, you will see the term “reasonable accommodation.” To provide a reasonable accommodation, we must have received documentation of your disability. Establishing accommodation is done on a case-by-case basis to address individual needs. You will find procedures for receiving this assistance in your handbook.

This handbook is designed to familiarize you with legislation, procedures and services that may benefit you as a student with a disability. After reading through it, should you have any further questions, please feel free to call one of us at 843.574.6131 or come by Counseling and Career Development Services in Building 410, Room 210. We are looking forward to working with you, and wish you luck in your academic career!

Sincerely,

Program Definitions and Staff

Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) is part of Counseling and Career Development Services. SSD assists any student with a documented disability beginning with admission and continuing through college. Services offered to students with disabilities may include assistance during the admission process, such as adapting testing requirements, and can extend to assistance in obtaining reasonable accommodations for instructional activities as well as academic, career, and personal counseling. SSD also serves as a resource for faculty and staff needing assistance working with students with disabilities.

Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act Impact on Postsecondary Education

Two laws that are important to postsecondary students with disabilities are the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA). Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of a disability by any program or activity offered by an institution receiving federal funds. Subpart E of the Rehabilitation Act requires an institution to be prepared to make reasonable academic adjustments and accommodations to allow students with disabilities full participation in the same programs and activities available to non-disabled students. The ADA expanded and reinforced the Rehabilitation Act, making it illegal to bar admission of students with disabilities to programs or activities based on disability.

In 2008, the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments Act (ADAAA) amended the American with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) to expand the interpretation of the meaning of disability under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, but the basic definition of disability did not change as a result of the amendment. The major effect of the ADAAA was to broaden the list of impairments recognized under section 504 and the ADA.

Disability – A “person with a disability” is someone with a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities; someone who has a record of an impairment; or someone who is regarded as having an impairment.

Reasonable accommodation – A modification or adjustment to any activity to allow equal participation in the activity by a person who has a disability.

Otherwise qualified – A student who has a disability must be able to perform the essential or fundamental aspects of the course or program with or without reasonable accommodations.

Documentation – A letter or medical records from a professional (doctor/psychiatrist/psychologist) stating the student’s disabilities and the functional limitations of the disability. This information must be submitted to a counselor prior to the provision of any accommodation.

Standard of Access

The standard for access to programs and services under the ADA for public institutions is that all programs must be readily accessible to, and useable by, qualified persons with disabilities. In addition, qualified students with disabilities must be provided equal services in a setting that is as integrated as possible. The determination of what is an equal and integrated setting will be made on a case-by-case basis. What is appropriate for one person with a specific impairment may not be useful or appropriate for another person with the same impairment.
Further Clarification on Reasonable Accommodations

Reasonable accommodations are designed to provide equal access to programs and services for qualified individuals with disabilities. Accommodations are reasonable when they do not fundamentally alter the nature of a program or service and do not represent an undue financial or administrative burden. Accommodations will not be offered that would substantially modify the educational standards, operation and/or mission of the College. An accommodation that would be unduly costly, extensive, substantial or disruptive or that would fundamentally alter the nature of the course program, service or activity offered by the college would constitute a substantial modification. Students with disabilities must perform at satisfactory levels in their academic program in college. If they do not request reasonable accommodations and perform poorly without them, their civil rights have not been violated. The student must then live with the consequences of unsatisfactory academic performance.

Academic Standards Not Affected

The ADA does not require that colleges or universities lower academic standards or fundamentally alter the nature of the programs provided. As such, reasonable accommodation does not negate the requirement for successful completion of courses and programs, adherence to generally acceptable standards of behavior and the College’s Code of Conduct. The College is not required to offer or provide an accommodation if, taking into account the disabled student’s qualifications, along with the requested accommodation, the student is not otherwise qualified to meet the academic and technical standards requisite for admission or participation in an educational program or activity.

What is Meant by Otherwise Qualified?

When students apply to a college or university, they are required to demonstrate that they meet the admissions standards for an institution. Admission standards can include providing high school transcripts or proof of a GED, college entrance exam scores (ACT or SAT) or placement test scores. Students who apply to a college or university must demonstrate that they meet the institution’s admissions standards.
Self-Identification of Disabilities

In order to be eligible for appropriate accommodations, students must identify themselves to the College and provide documentation of a disability. A student may register with disability services on a voluntary, confidential basis at any time. However, the College is not responsible for providing any accommodations for students with a disability who have not registered and requested accommodations. Individual Education Programs (IEPs) and previous 504 plans may be provided as a source of useful information but are not sufficient documentation in our personal records for future use. Keep in mind that if you sent your 504 plan or your IEP to the Admissions Office that you are not automatically registered with Services for Students with Disabilities. You must still meet with a counselor and work through the intake process before you are eligible for reasonable accommodations.

With respect to disability, each individual must be able to explain their functional limitations (how their disability affects them or limits the ways in which tasks are performed). The limitations of the disability, not the disability itself, are the reason accommodations are recommended and provided. Students must also understand how those limitations can be effectively accommodated to create a level playing field for them in school. If a student doesn’t request an accommodation, the consequences of that action belong to the student.
Types of Disabilities

Types of disabilities include physical and mental impairments that may affect an individual in one or more major life activities.

Physical Disabilities - Mobility refers to different people with varying types of physical disabilities. It is often related to individuals with upper limb mobility, manual dexterity, and coordination problem. Mobility impairment is one of the disability types that affect movement ranging from gross motor skills like walking, to fine motor movement involving manipulation of objects by hand.

Learning Disabilities – Various conditions that interfere with an individual's ability to learn and to result in impaired functioning in language, reasoning, or academic skills and that are thought to be caused by difficulties in processing and integrating information.

Attention Deficit/ Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) - a syndrome of disordered learning and disruptive behavior that is not caused by any serious underlying physical or mental disorder and that has several subtypes characterized primarily by symptoms of inattentiveness or primarily by symptoms of hyperactivity and impulsive behavior (as speaking out of turn) or by the significant expression of all three —abbreviation ADD.

Deafness and Hard of Hearing – mild to severe impairments in processing linguistic information through hearing. Some deaf people use sign language to communicate.

Blindness and Low Vision – mild to severe impairments in vision as a result of injury, illness or congenital conditions.

Psychological Disabilities – affective disorders are disorders of mood or feeling (short or long term) and personality disorders are long term patterns of thoughts and behaviors that cause serious relationships and work. People with personality disorders have difficulty dealing with everyday stresses and problems.
Types of Accommodations

Reasonable accommodations are modifications or adjustments to any activity to allow equal participation in the activity by a person who has a disability.

Some examples of reasonable accommodations for classroom activities are:

- Accessible Computers and Software
- Accessible Tables and Chairs
- Faculty Notification
- Large Print Materials
- Note-takers
- Reader/Scribe Services
- Sign Language Interpreters
- Digital Voice Recorders
- Test-Taking Accommodations
- Text Telephone Devices (TTD) for Hearing Impaired Persons
- Text books on CD
Service Animals

Users of Service Animals

Service animals are guide dogs, signal dogs, or other animals individually trained to provide assistance to an individual with a disability. If they meet this definition, animals are considered service animals under the ADA. Service animals perform some of the functions and tasks that the individual with a disability cannot perform independently. In September 2010, the Department of Justice placed a limitation on the definition of service animals to include only guide and signal dogs, and miniature horses. These animals must be trained to perform specific work or tasks that are directly related to an individual’s disability. "Seeing eye dogs" are one type of service animal used by some individuals who are blind. This is the type of service animal with which most people are familiar.

Trident Technical College permits service animals on campus to assist individuals with disabilities.
Disability Parking

If you have a disability placard, you may park in any of the designated handicap parking spaces. If you have a temporary disability and require such parking, you will need to schedule an appointment with a disability counselor and bring documentation of the temporary disabling condition with you to that appointment. The professional who provides your documentation should indicate the time frame for you to access disability parking. If your documentation is appropriate, you will be issued a temporary parking sticker.

How to Make the College Aware of Your Disability

1. Meet with a counselor for students with disabilities at the Main campus. Walk-Ins are welcomed. Counseling and Career Development Services can be contacted at (843) 574-6131, Building 410, Room 210.

Make an appointment with a counselor for students with disabilities at the Palmer campus by contacting the Student Success Center at (843) 722-5516, Room 226.

Make an appointment with a counselor for students with disabilities at the Berkeley campus by contacting the Student Success Center at (843) 899-8079, Room 178.

If this is your first appointment to request services, this will be your intake meeting.

2. Prepare for this meeting. You will need current documentation of your disability from appropriate professional sources in the form of medical records, psychological testing and/or school records. Examples of sufficient documentation are on page 12.

3. Inform the counselor of your disability-related needs during this intake meeting. Be ready to describe any challenges you face as a result of your disability.

4. Tell the counselor if you want your instructors to be informed of your disability. If you want the counselor to inform your instructor, the counselor will be able to make specific accommodation recommendations to the instructors for your academic activities. See Page 13 for more information about Faculty Notification Procedures.

Note: Counseling records (including documentation of your disability) are kept separate from academic records and are confidential. There are rare exceptions to confidentiality. These exceptions include situations involving serious risk to your safety or to the safety of others; serious risk to property; communications concerning the abuse or neglect of minors or elders; and cases involving sexual harassment allegations at Trident Technical College. Access to counseling records is limited to staff members who need access in the performance of their professional duties.
Documenting Your Disability

When reviewing documentation for the purpose of providing an accommodation, the counselor may use the following questions to determine whether or not the documentation is sufficient to support the requested adjustments:

Is the documentation current?

Yes – Generally, documentation dated within the last 2-3 years is considered current. If yes,

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Does the documentation contain a current diagnosis or description of the condition?

Yes, If yes,…

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Was the documentation completed by an appropriate qualified professional?

Yes – Medical conditions must be documented by the treating medical physician, learning disabilities and/or other psychological conditions by a psychologist, and psychiatric and/or mental illnesses by a psychiatrist. If yes,

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Does the documentation indicate the severity and/or limitations of the conditions?

Yes, if yes…

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Does the documentation indicate the current level of stability?

Yes – Depending on the nature of the disability and the limitations, stability of the symptoms may need to be considered when planning for appropriate accommodations. If yes,

No – If stability of the condition is an issue, more documentation may be required. A discussion with the student may be desired as well.

Is the request for accommodations reasonable?

Yes – Is the request based on limitations as they present themselves in an academic environment? Is it a reasonable adjustment to make in the academic setting? If yes,

No – More documentation may be required to support the request, and the counselor may wish to have a discussion with the student and/or instructor.

Accommodations are provided using any recommendations that may be contained in the documentation as a guide. Accommodations are reviewed with the student as the need arises (minimally, each term of enrollment) to ensure that they are effective and that the need for them continues. Should a change in the accommodations be requested, further documentation may be required to support the request.
Faculty Notification Process

When you meet with a counselor, it is determined whether you would like the faculty to be informed of your disability and given recommendations for accommodations. If you want the counselor to inform your instructors, the following procedure is used. Please be aware of your responsibility in this process as outlined on the following pages.

1. Student comes (self, faculty, staff, parent, and agency) to Services for Students with Disabilities. This may occur at any time during or between terms.

2. Students will meet with a disability counselor for an Intake. Interview for services is completed, release of information signed.

3. Documentation of disability provided or requested.

4. Review of documentation, consultation with other staff and/or consultation with person writing the documentation, if necessary.

5. Determination of reasonable accommodations including consultation with other Services for Students with Disabilities staff.

6. Faculty notification email completed and sent to department heads and deans for distribution as soon as possible following open registration, or as soon as the need for appropriate accommodations is determined. Instructors are made aware of those accommodations requiring immediate attention due to advanced preparation, and those faculty notifications may be distributed in advance as well. (See Pages 14 and 15.)

7. Faculty reviews faculty email submits a response form if he/she has questions/comments about the accommodations. (Faculty member is encouraged to confer with student.)

   a. Agree

   b. Disagree

     Faculty and counselor address any difficulties with accommodations. Changes to accommodations may be made based on dialogue between student, counselor and instructor. (See Mediation Procedure Page 17.)

8. Student receives copy of finalized faculty notification.

9. It is the student’s responsibility to introduce himself/herself to faculty the first day of class.

Student Responsibilities in the Faculty Notification Process

You must contact your counselor each term to discuss your courses and accommodations. This allows your counselor to help you determine an appropriate course load, as well as monitor your academic performance. Your accommodations may need to be revised or adjusted accordingly as you progress.

If possible, meet with a counselor during registration and give your counselor a copy of your schedule immediately after registering. This enables your counselor to notify your instructors of the recommended accommodations at the beginning of each term. Once the faculty notification form has been distributed and your instructors are aware of your needs, a copy of your notification will be mailed to your Trident Technical College e-mail address by your counselor.

If accommodations for testing are recommended by your counselor, inform Testing Services of your instructors’ test schedules. These are given to you in your course syllabi at the beginning of classes each term. Please read Page 20 for more information about using Testing Services. YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR SCHEDULING TESTING DATES AND TIMES WITH TESTING SERVICES. It may also be helpful to notify your counselor well in advance if special assistance (such as proctors, equipment, etc.) with an upcoming test is required.

Once the term is in progress, you may still request accommodations based on a documented disability. However, we cannot remedy any problems retroactively, and can only commit to proceeding as quickly as possible in implanting any reasonable accommodations for the remainder of the term. Please plan ahead! A minimum of 5 days is needed to process a request.
Working with Your Instructors

Instructors are key to helping you get the assistance you need in your classes. Some suggestions for working with instructors are as follows:

1. Meet with your instructors at the beginning of each term to discuss your needs.
2. Keep in contact with your instructors throughout the term to discuss problems, etc.
3. If you take your tests in the Testing Services office, remind your instructor two weeks before the scheduled test to make the appropriate arrangements with Testing Services.
4. Remember that many instructors do not get their teaching assignments until immediately before the first class meeting, often because new sections are added to accommodate class growth. Please inform your SSD counselor if your instructor changes or if you drop or add a course.
The Mediation Process

Ideally, reasonable accommodations will be provided to students with disabilities in support of the pursuit of their educational goals. Students should receive a copy of their agreed-upon accommodations that are supported by both Academics and Student Services. This will help avoid situations that may result in grievances and disputes. However, there may be times when a faculty member disagrees with the provision of a certain accommodation. When the requested accommodations are not granted, the student may request mediation. The following chart should help you gain an understanding of the mediation process used when a disagreement does occur between an instructor and a counselor advocating for a student.

Process

1. Student requests accommodations (with accompanying documentation).
2. Counselors provide faculty with recommendations within one week of receipt of documentation.
   - Faculty agrees. Able to comply.
     - Faculty disagrees or unable to comply, notifies counselor within one week.
     - Faculty/counselor consult.
       - Agreement on original recommendations or modifications.
         - Student notified.
       - Non-agreement
         - Faculty / counselor meet w/ADA coordinator for mediation
           - Agreement
             - Student notified.
           - Non-agreement
             - ADA coordinator submits report including justifications written by faculty and counselor to Vice President of Academic Affairs.
               - Vice President makes final decision
                 - Student notified; accommodations or appropriate modifications may be provided.
Mediation Process for Students

There may be times when you disagree with your counselor about the provision of accommodations. If this happens, you may choose to follow the mediation procedure illustrated in the chart below.

1. Disagreement with counselor initiates discussion.

2. Student requests a conference with the Director of Counseling and Career Development Services, or in that person’s absence, the dean of that department.

3. Agreement on provision of original requested accommodation or appropriate modifications; faculty notifications may be distributed.

4. Disagreement

   5. Student and counselor meet with the College’s ADA coordinator.

   6. Agreement on provision of original requested accommodation or appropriate modifications; faculty notifications may be distributed

   7. Disagreement

      8. Student may file grievance which is submitted, along with a report prepared by the ADA coordinator, to the vice-president of Student Services.

      9. Vice-president makes final decision.

   10. Original requested accommodation or appropriate modifications may be provided; faculty notifications may be distributed.
