Confidentiality

The Office of Counseling and Career Development is responsible for maintaining confidentiality of student records and will not release any medical or psychological records, including psychological educational evaluations and other related information outside of education records, without the student’s informed and written consent. Forms that are generated for the purpose of providing accommodations for the student will be part of the student’s educational records and, therefore, will be subject to the guidelines of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA). The student is free to disclose the nature of his/her disability to anyone he/she wishes.
Welcome to Trident Technical College! We are very pleased you have decided to continue your education here at TTC. The Handbook for Students with Disabilities contains information about the resources that are available to you as you pursue your educational goals. Please read it carefully. You will find it very helpful.

The TTC faculty and staff are committed to your success. The counselors are your advocates, and work to support your academic success. They will help you clarify your career goals, select your program of study, plan your curriculum, and complete your registration. They also communicate your accommodations needs to the faculty. We hope you enjoy your experience here at TTC!

Sincerely,

Patrice B. Mitchell, Ed.D.
Vice President for Student Services
Dear Student:

Welcome to Trident Technical College! We are pleased that you have chosen to pursue your educational goals here at TTC. We would like to take this opportunity to introduce you to the many helpful resources that the college offers for students with disabilities.

As you read through your handbook, you will see the term “reasonable accommodation.” To provide a reasonable accommodation, we must have received documentation of your disability. Establishing an accommodation is done on a case-by-case basis to address individual needs. You will find procedures for receiving this assistance in your handbook.

This handbook is designed to familiarize you with legislation, procedures and services that may benefit you as a student with a disability. After reading through it, should you have any further questions, please feel free to call one of us at 843.574.6131 or come by Counseling and Career Development Services in Building 410, Room 210. We are looking forward to working with you, and wish you luck in your academic career!

Sincerely,

Program Definitions and Staff

Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) is part of Counseling and Career Development Services. SSD assists any student with a documented disability beginning with admission and continuing through college. Services offered to students with disabilities may include assistance during the admission process, such as adapting testing requirements, and can extend to assistance in obtaining reasonable accommodations for instructional activities as well as academic, career, and personal counseling. SSD also serves as a resource for faculty and staff needing assistance working with students with disabilities.

Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act Impact on Postsecondary Education

Two laws that are important to postsecondary students with disabilities are the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA). Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of a disability by any program or activity offered by an institution receiving federal funds. Subpart E of the Rehabilitation Act requires an institution to be prepared to make reasonable academic adjustments and accommodations to allow students with disabilities full participation in the same programs and activities available to non-disabled students. The ADA expanded and reinforced the Rehabilitation Act, making it illegal to bar admission of students with disabilities to programs or activities based on disability.

In 2008, the Americans with Disabilities Act Amendments Act (ADAAA) amended the American with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) to expand the interpretation of the meaning of disability under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, but the basic definition of disability did not change as a result of the amendment. The major effect of the ADAAA was to broaden the list of impairments recognized under section 504 and the ADA.

Disability – A “person with a disability” is someone with a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities; someone who has a record of an impairment; or someone who is regarded as having an impairment.

Reasonable accommodation – A reasonable modification or academic adjustment and/or auxiliary aid or service that allows equal participation in the activity by a person who has a disability.

Otherwise qualified – A student who has a disability must be able to perform the essential or fundamental aspects of the course or program with or without reasonable accommodations.

Documentation – A letter or medical records from a professional (doctor/psychiatrist/psychologist) stating the student’s disabilities and the functional limitations of the disability. This information must be submitted to a counselor prior to the provision of any accommodation.

Standard of Access

The standard for access to programs and services under the ADA for public institutions is that all programs must be readily accessible to, and useable by qualified persons with disabilities. In addition, qualified students with disabilities must be provided equal services in a setting that is as integrated as possible. The determination of what is an equal and integrated setting will be made on a case-by-case basis. What is appropriate for one person with a specific impairment may not be useful or appropriate for another person with the same impairment. Both Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and Title II of the American with Disabilities Act, as amended (ADAAA), envision a meaningful and informed process of determining reasonable accommodations through the utilization of an interactive and collaborative exchange between the College and the student.
Self-Identification of Disabilities (moved)

In order to be eligible for appropriate accommodations, students must identify themselves to the College and provide documentation of a disability. A student may register with disability services on a voluntary, confidential basis at any time. However, the College is not responsible for providing any accommodations for students with a disability who have not registered and requested accommodations. Individual Education Programs (IEPs) and previous 504 plans may be provided as a source of useful information but are not sufficient documentation in our personal records for future use. Keep in mind that if you sent your 504 plan or your IEP to the Admissions Office that you are not automatically registered with Services for Students with Disabilities. You must still meet with a counselor and work through the intake process before you are eligible for reasonable accommodations.

With respect to disability, each individual must be able to explain their functional limitations (how their disability affects them or limits the ways in which tasks are performed). The limitations of the disability, not the disability itself, are the reason accommodations are recommended and provided. Students must also understand how those limitations can be effectively accommodated to create a level playing field for them in school. If a student doesn’t request an accommodation, the consequences of that action belong to the student.

Determination of Reasonable Accommodations

The Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) Office, with requisite training and expertise in the area of disability services, not faculty, is responsible for determining whether an accommodation is approved or denied. For approved accommodations, the SSD Office is responsible for determining under what circumstances an accommodation is warranted, on an individualized basis after engaging in an interactive process with the student and fully considering the following factors:

a) The student’s specific disability(ies) and its impact;

b) The student’s request for a particular accommodation or stated disability-related need;

c) Any unique characteristics of his/her course of study and classes.
Denial of Request(s) for Accommodations

Reasonable accommodations are designed to provide equal access to programs and services for qualified individuals with disabilities. Accommodations are reasonable when they do not fundamentally alter the nature of an academic program, service or activity offered by the college.

Section 504 and Title II do not require a College to modify academic requirements that are essential to the academic instruction being pursued by the student or to any directly related licensing requirement. If the College determines that the academic requirement is educationally justifiable, i.e. essential to the educational purpose or objective of a program or class, and that the requested accommodation would fundamentally alter the nature of the course program, service, or activity offered by the college, the accommodation would constitute a substantial modification that would be denied.

In making a determination regarding essential program requirements, and the denial of a requested accommodation, the College must be able to show, and provide written documentation of the following factors:

a. how the decision regarding the essential requirement was made by a group of people, including disability counselors, faculty, and staff who are trained, knowledgeable and experienced in the area;

b. how the decision was made through a careful, thoughtful and rational review of the academic program and its requirements; and

c. how the decision-makers considered a series of alternatives for the essential requirements, as well as whether the essential requirements in question can be modified for a specific student with a disability.

Further, a requested accommodation must not represent an undue financial or administrative burden upon the College. If it is determined that the requested accommodation would be unduly costly, extensive, substantial, or disruptive to a College’s programs or activities, the College will deny the requested accommodation. However, the College must consider reasonable alternatives to the requested accommodation that will be suitable for the specific student with a disability. The protocol for determining non-modifiable accommodations is outlined on page 15.

The reason(s) for the denial of an accommodation must be clearly communicated to the student so that the student has a reasonable opportunity to respond and provide additional documentation that would address the College’s objections.

If the College determines that the accommodation request is still unreasonable, after submission of additional documentation in support of the request for an accommodation, the student shall have the right to utilize the College’s Students with Disability Mediation Process and/or the College’s Discrimination Complaint Procedures to resolve the issue.
Academic Standards Not Affected

The ADA does not require that colleges or universities lower academic standards or fundamentally alter the nature of the programs provided. As such, students with disabilities must perform at satisfactory levels in their academic program in college. If a student with a disability does not request reasonable accommodations, or receives reasonable accommodations but still performs poorly in a course, he/she must live with the consequences of unsatisfactory academic performance.

What is Meant by Otherwise Qualified?

When students apply to a college or university, they are required to demonstrate that they meet the admission standards for an institution. Admission standards can include providing high school transcripts or proof of a GED, college entrance exam scores (ACT or SAT) or placement test scores. Students who apply to a college or university must demonstrate that they meet the institution's admission standards.
Types of Disabilities

Types of disabilities include physical and mental impairments that may affect an individual in one or more major life activities.

Physical Disabilities - Mobility refers to different people with varying types of physical disabilities. It is often related to individuals with upper limb mobility, manual dexterity, and coordination problems. Mobility impairment is one of the disability types that affect movement ranging from gross motor skills like walking, to fine motor movement involving manipulation of objects by hand.

Learning Disabilities – Various conditions that interfere with an individual's ability to learn and to result in impaired functioning in language, reasoning, or academic skills and that are thought to be caused by difficulties in processing and integrating information.

Attention Deficit/ Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) - a syndrome of disordered learning and disruptive behavior that is not caused by any serious underlying physical or mental disorder and that has several subtypes characterized primarily by symptoms of inattentiveness or primarily by symptoms of hyperactivity and impulsive behavior (as speaking out of turn) or by the significant expression of all three —abbreviation ADD.

Deafness and Hard of Hearing – mild to severe impairments in processing linguistic information through hearing. Some deaf people use sign language to communicate.

Blindness and Low Vision – mild to severe impairments in vision as a result of injury, illness or congenital conditions.

Psychological Disabilities – affective disorders are disorders of mood or feeling (short or long term) and personality disorders are long term patterns of thoughts and behaviors that cause serious problems with relationships and work. People with personality disorders have difficulty dealing with everyday stresses and problems.
Types of Accommodations

Reasonable accommodations are modifications or adjustments to any activity to allow equal participation in the activity by a person who has a disability.

Some examples of reasonable accommodations for classroom activities are:

- Accessible Computers and Software
- Accessible Tables and Chairs
- Large Print Materials
- Note-takers
- Reader/Scribe Services
- Sign Language Interpreters
- Digital Voice Recorders
- Test-Taking Accommodations
- Text Telephone Devices (TTD) for Hearing Impaired Persons
- Text books on CD

Service Animals

Users of Service Animals

Trident Technical College permits service animals on campus to assist individuals with a disability. A service animal is defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act, as amended (ADAAA), as a dog that has been individually trained to do work or perform tasks for an individual with a disability, including a physical, sensory, psychiatric, intellectual, or other mental disability. In September 2010, the Department of Justice expanded its definition of service animal to include miniature horses. A miniature horse is considered to be a service animal if it meets the assessment factors provided for under the ADA. The work or tasks performed by a service animal must be directly related to the individual’s disability. "Seeing eye dogs" are one type of service animal used by some individuals who are visually impaired. This is the type of service animal with which most people are familiar.

Other species of animals, whether wild or domestic, trained or untrained, are not considered service animals and are not permitted on campus. Also, dogs or other animals used for emotional support, therapy, comfort, companions, and dogs-in-training are not considered qualified service dogs.

Any questions concerning service animals should be directed to the Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) Office located within Counseling and Career Development (https://www.tridenttech.edu/student/help/st_disab.htm), Bldg. 410, Ste. 210, 843-574-6131.
Disability Parking

If you have a disability placard, you may park in any of the designated handicap parking spaces. If you have a temporary disability and require such parking, you will need to schedule an appointment with a disability counselor and bring documentation of the temporary disabling condition with you to that appointment. The professional who provides your documentation should indicate the time frame for you to access disability parking. If your documentation is appropriate, you will be issued a temporary parking sticker.

Training

The College will provide annual training to faculty and staff, who are responsible for receiving, considering, approving, and implementing requests for reasonable accommodations about their responsibilities to students with disabilities. The training will provide information about the requirements of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, as amended (ADAAA), and will emphasize that faculty and staff are responsible for providing reasonable accommodations for a student with a disability as designated in the Faculty Notification form issued by the College’s SSD Office. The training shall also provide a forum for questions from faculty and staff about the policy, procedures, and protocol relating to the determination and implementation of reasonable accommodations. Trainings shall be provided either in person or through video, online, or other formats.

How to Make the College Aware of Your Disability

1. Meet with a counselor for students with disabilities at the Main campus. Walk-Ins are welcomed. Counseling and Career Development Services can be contacted at (843) 574-6131, Building 410, Room 210.

Make an appointment with a counselor for students with disabilities at the Palmer and Mt. Pleasant campuses by contacting the Student Success Center at (843) 722-5516, Room 226.

Make an appointment with a counselor for students with disabilities at the Berkeley campus by contacting the Student Success Center at (843) 899-8079, Room 178.

If this is your first appointment to request services, this will be your intake meeting.

2. Prepare for this meeting. You will need current documentation of your disability from appropriate professional sources in the form of medical records, psychological testing and/or school records. Examples of sufficient documentation are on page 12.

3. Inform the counselor of your disability-related needs during this intake meeting. Be ready to describe any challenges you face as a result of your disability.

4. Tell the counselor if you want your instructors to be informed of your disability. If you want the counselor to inform your instructor, the counselor will be able to make specific accommodation recommendations to the instructors for your academic activities. See Page 13 for more information about Faculty Notification Procedures.

Note: Counseling records (including documentation of your disability) are kept separate from academic records and are confidential. There are rare exceptions to confidentiality. These exceptions include situations involving serious risk to your safety or to the safety of others; serious risk to property; communications concerning the abuse or neglect of minors or elders; and cases involving sexual harassment allegations at Trident Technical College. Access to counseling records is limited to staff members who need access in the performance of their professional duties.
Documenting Your Disability

When reviewing documentation for the purpose of providing an accommodation, the counselor may use the following questions to determine whether or not the documentation is sufficient to support the requested adjustments:

Is the documentation current?

Yes – Generally, documentation dated within the last 2-3 years is considered current. If yes,

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Does the documentation contain a current diagnosis or description of the condition?

Yes, If yes,…

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Was the documentation completed by an appropriate qualified professional?

Yes – Medical conditions must be documented by the treating medical physician, learning disabilities and/or other psychological conditions by a psychologist, and psychiatric and/or mental illnesses by a psychiatrist. If yes,

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Does the documentation indicate the severity and/or limitations of the conditions?

Yes, if yes…

No – More documentation may be required, and discussion with the student may be desirable.

Does the documentation indicate the current level of stability?

Yes – Depending on the nature of the disability and the limitations, stability of the symptoms may need to be considered when planning for appropriate accommodations. If yes,

No – If stability of the condition is an issue, more documentation may be required. A discussion with the student may be desired as well.

Is the request for accommodations reasonable?

Yes – Is the request based on limitations as they present themselves in an academic environment? Is it a reasonable adjustment to make in the academic setting? If yes,

No – More documentation may be required to support the request, and the counselor may wish to have a discussion with the student and/or instructor.

Accommodations are provided using any recommendations that may be contained in the documentation as a guide. Accommodations are reviewed with the student as the need arises (minimally, each term of enrollment) to ensure that they are effective and that the need for them continues. Should a change in the accommodations be requested, further documentation may be required to support the request.
Faculty Notification Process

When you meet with a SSD counselor, you decide if you want to request reasonable accommodations and if you want the faculty notified of your specific disability. The following is the process used for determining reasonable accommodations and notifying you and the faculty about those accommodations.

1. Student comes to Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) Office. This may occur at any time during or between terms.

2. Student meets with a disability counselor. Interview for services is completed and release of information signed.

3. Student provides documentation of disability or documentation is requested.

4. Review of documentation by SSD Counselor(s), consultation with other SSD staff and/or consultation with person writing the documentation, if necessary.

5. SSD Counselor(s) and staff determine reasonable accommodations.

6. SSD Counselor sends Faculty Notification form by email to faculty, department head, dean, and student as soon as accommodations are approved and the student is registered for courses. It is the student’s responsibility to introduce himself/herself to faculty on the first day of class.

7. If faculty has questions or concerns about a particular accommodation, or the accommodations falls outside of the list of approved accommodations, SSD and faculty will follow the Protocol outlined on page 15.
Protocol for Determining Non-Modifiable Accommodations

- SSD with Academic Departments keep a list of common accommodations. These will be updated annually and provided to SSD.
- When SSD requests accommodations that are not contained on the list the appropriate Academic Dean and Department Head are notified.
- If the Academic Dean and Department Head determine the accommodations request does not compromise any essential functions of the course, they will notify SSD office in writing.
- If the Academic Dean and/or Department Head believe that the requested accommodations compromise essential requirements of the course, then:
  - The Dean and Department Head will document how the requested accommodation compromises essential functions.
  - A team of decision makers (Dean, Department Head, representative(s) from SSD, and representative from the office of the Vice President of Academic Affairs) will convene.
  - The team decides, based on a careful, thoughtful, and rational review of the program and its essential requirements, whether the requested accommodations do or do not compromise the essential requirements of the course.
  - If the original request is deemed to compromise essential requirements of the course, the team will consider a series of alternative accommodations.
  - If no alternative accommodations can be made, the team will consider whether the essential requirement(s) in question can be modified for a specific student with a disability. Once the team determines any modifications to be made they will notify the SSD office in writing of the proposed accommodations.
  - If the team determines that an accommodation should be denied, it shall clearly state the basis for denial, and will notify the SSD office.
- SSD will send official Faculty Notification Form to the Academic Dean, Department Head, and Faculty Member of accommodation.
- Once the Faculty Notification form is sent, SSD and faculty will provide all accommodations. Any amendments to the Faculty Notification Form shall be made by SSD.

Student Responsibilities in the Faculty Notification Process

You must contact your counselor each term to discuss your courses and accommodations. This allows your counselor to help you determine an appropriate course load, as well as monitor your academic performance. Your accommodations may need to be revised or adjusted accordingly as you progress.

If possible, meet with a counselor during registration and give your counselor a copy of your schedule immediately after registering. This enables your counselor to notify your instructors of the recommended accommodations at the beginning of each term. Once the faculty notification form has been distributed and your instructors are aware of your needs, a copy of your notification will be mailed to your Trident Technical College e-mail address by your counselor.

If accommodations for testing are approved by your counselor, inform Testing Services of your instructors’ test schedules. These are given to you in your course syllabi at the beginning of classes each term. Please read Page 20 for more information about using Testing Services. YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR SCHEDULING TESTING DATES AND TIMES WITH TESTING SERVICES. It may also be helpful to notify your counselor well in advance if special assistance (such as proctors, equipment, etc.) with an upcoming test is required.

Once the term is in progress, you may still request accommodations based on a documented disability. However, we cannot remedy any problems retroactively, and can only commit to proceeding as quickly as possible in implanting any reasonable accommodations for the remainder of the term. Please plan ahead! A minimum of 5 days is needed to process a request.
Working with Your Instructors

Instructors are key to helping you get the assistance you need in your classes. Some suggestions for working with instructors are as follows:

1. Meet with your instructors at the beginning of each term to discuss your needs.

2. Keep in contact with your instructors throughout the term to discuss problems, etc.

3. If you take your tests in the Testing Services office, remind your instructor two weeks before the scheduled test to make the appropriate arrangements with Testing Services.

4. Remember that many instructors do not get their teaching assignments until immediately before the first class meeting, often because new sections are added to accommodate class growth. Please inform your SSD counselor if your instructor changes or if you drop or add a course.
Mediation Process for Students

There may be times when you disagree with your SSD counselor about the provision of accommodations or the SSD office/counselor denies your accommodation(s) request. If this happens, you may choose to follow the mediation procedure illustrated in the chart below:

The facilities are reserved for academic use only. A current student ID is required for software checkouts. Lab assistants are available to monitor the facilities, perform basic system checks, and assist with any hardware or software problems.
